Mr Ewens maintained that the contract should have gone into details to what the defendent now said required; and that would have made a great difference in the price. Perhaps the coolies might have done the work pretty badly, but most Chinese could only be exproted to do ad.

Mr Wilkinson said that as a matter of fact there was a former contract which did give all the details referred to by Mr Ewens, and this was a shorter agreement supplementary to the first. This contract stipulated for the job to be done ' in a workmanlike manner, whereas it was abominably done, and Mr Miller had complained from the first, and said what ought-to be done. By the faulty work of the plaint ff, the defendant had lost not only his contract with the Godown Company, but also $113 out of pocket in advances paid on account, the value of the tar wasted, and less of time.
